“ Seniu and I hung out often and I appreciated his time. It wasn't made into a big deal, as I'm "a stoner who nobody wants to associate with". At least that's how it was at CV. Seniu on the other hand, was wise and mature enough to look past that and watched movies with me and went on night walks when he was supposed to be home. He ended up going to my school a few weeks before this happened and I was ecstatic at having found my old friend. Although I didn't get to kick it with you again in this lifetime, I know you're happier now and we can def kick it again in another life(: I promise. I chose to light a blue candle (in real life as well) because it symbolizes trust, loyalty, wisdom, confidence, intelligence, faith, truth, and Heaven. -Daisy

“ Jim, Joyce and Falute,
My heart is heavy with the news of Senui's passing and my prayers are with all of you. My deepest sympathy. I have been thinking of Senui, remembering a happy first grader. I remember different conversations as he was learning new words and their meanings! I think he often wondered why we needed so many! I remember a loving little boy who gave me lots of hugs! And Kleenex lots of Kleenex! My thoughts and prayers are with you! Misty Herbert (Senui's first grade teacher)

“ Everyone was always yelling at him to grab a kleenex. He finally grew out of that. That is a sweet memory.

“ I didn't know your son, but he was important to me. My former boss shared something he wrote for class (with Seniu's permission), and I wish I could remember it without the text being in front of me, but it was about life. I printed out the quote and it hangs in my cube. I look at it often. It appeared Seniu was wise beyond his years and really understood what was important in life. I know he will be missed.

“ Life is tough, life isn't fair, life isn't a path of happiness. Life isn't smooth, life isn't the best, it will never be any of the above. Life is like a maze, it's something special that was given to you to solve.

Life sucks. But you know what, I'm sure happy I'm alive. I get love from my family and make new friends that are pretty great. I have friends that are there for me.

Use your life wisely people.

“ I taught Seniu when I was a student teacher at Cheldelin. One day he came to school in a pink polo shirt and matching pink shorts. Another student said something to tease him about his outfit, and I turned to that student and said, "Seniu can wear pink because he is secure in his manhood." Seniu just looked at the kid and raised his eyebrows. A few days later, the other student came to school in a bright pink shirt. Seniu was generous and loyal, the kind of friend who would take all the blame for a misdeed he was only peripherally involved in, so that his friends could stay out of trouble. He created many memories that will live on in many hearts.

“ I hung out with Seniu a lot actually, especially when I lived in Southtown. He would drive to my house and we would kick it for a few hours before he had to be back. He was always kind and laughed at movies with me and I loved his company. He was and is such a sweet man.

“ Joyce, Jim, Falute - I am so very sorry for your loss. 'Ua tagi le fatu male eleele! The heart and the earth weeps!

I recall Seniu when you all came over on a Sat. morning after you arrived from Samoa. He was about 5(?), very shy and was trying to hide behind Jim; Falute was bubbly and out and about. I spoke Samoan to Seniu and he followed me around the house that day. We would like to sing a song in Samoan for Seniu. Please let me know if that is possible. Is there anything I can do to help?
