

Sydney Gerald Honey

March 9, 1931 - April 9, 2024

Sydney Gerald "Syd" Honey passed away on April 9, 2024, in Corvallis, Oregon, at the age of 93. Born on March 9, 1931, in Eugene, Oregon, he was the beloved son of Sidney and Lavina Raymond Honey. He will be reunited with his parents and brother, Charles George Honey, in eternal peace at Rest-Haven Memorial Park in Eugene, Oregon.

Syd would often retell stories of his adventure at the age of 11 going to Canada on the bus to spend the summer with his Grand Father Charlie Raymond.

Syd, as he preferred to be called, was a proud veteran who served in the USA AIR FORCE from 1951 to 1955. His dedication and service to his country were commendable.

A brilliant mind, Syd pursued his passion for engineering and had a successful career as an Electrical Engineer at Boeing. He made significant contributions in his field and was highly respected by his colleagues.

In his free time, Syd enjoyed various hobbies, including sailing, snow skiing, mountain climbing, and tracking the stars. His adventurous spirit and love for the outdoors enriched his life and inspired those around him.

Syd will be deeply missed by his surviving sister-in-law, Katheryn Anne Honey, nephews James Sydney Honey, Brian Scott Honey, niece Debra Honey Zeller, and all who knew him.

Syd's educational journey included attending Lincoln Grade School and Woodrow Wilson Jr. High in Eugene, Oregon, before graduating from Eugene High School. He furthered his studies at Oregon State College in Corvallis, Oregon, and the University of Washington in Seattle, Washington.

Syd's legacy of service, dedication, and love for exploration will forever be remembered by those whose lives he touched. May he rest in peace.
